Trade of Liverpool.—The sales of cotton last week, (says the Liverpool Mercury of the 26th Nov.) amounted to 26,556 bales, which, we believe, is nearly the largest quantity ever disposed of in one week. The regular and extensive demand for this article, shows that there is an increased consumption of our manufactures; and this improvement, we suppose, is principally to be attributed to the shipments of manufactured goods which are making to the new states of South America.

[EXTRACTS OF LETTERS.]

Liverpool, Nov. 20.—We have had a good demand for cotton this week, and about 10,000 bags were taken on speculation; on the low and middle qualities of American there is an advance of 3-8d a ½d, and the better sorts ¼d, Brazils ½d, and Egyptian ½d, per lb. The total sales amount to 26,546 bags.

Tobacco was more inquired for this week, and about 100 hhds. were disposed of to the trade and for the Irish market; 50 hhds. were also taken on speculation. Of Turpentine 1800 barrels were sold at 10s. 6d. a 11s. per cwt. Carolina rice was in very limited demand, and only a few casks were disposed of at 18s. per cwt.

The way to confess.—A man confessing his sins to a priest, among other sins of which he accused himself, said, that a few hours before, he had beat his wife. The father confessor asked him the reason why? He answered that it was because he had so short a memory; he could never remember the sins he had committed; but whenever he beat his wife, she reproached him for all the ill he had ever done in his life; by which he was able to make a general confession with very little trouble, and for ten pence more obtain a perfect absolution.

18th Congress, 2d Session.

IN SENATE.

Monday, January 3d, 1825.

Mr. Smith, from the Joint Committee appointed to announce to General Lafayette the passage of the act in his favor, and to request his acceptance of the provision made for him, reported to the Senate the following copy of an address of the committee to the General, and his reply:

From the Joint Committee to Gen. Lafayette.

GENERAL: We are a committee of the Senate and House of Representatives, charged with the office of informing you of the passage of an act, a copy of which we now present. You will perceive from this act, sir, that the two Houses of Congress, aware of the large pecuniary as well as other sacrifices which your long and arduous devotion to the cause of freedom has cost you, have deemed it their privilege to reimburse a portion of them, as having been incurred, in part, on account of the United States. The principles that have marked your character will not permit you to oppose any objection to the discharge of so much of the national obligation to you as admits of it. We are directed to express to you the confidence, as well as the request, of the two Houses, that you will, by an acquiescence in their wishes in this respect, add another to the many and signal proofs you have afforded of your esteem for a people, whose esteem for you can never cease until they have ceased to prize the liberty they enjoy, and venerate the virtues by which it was acquired. We have only to subjoin an expression of our gratification in being the organs of this communication, and of the distinguished personal respect with which we are,

Your obedient servants,

S. SMITH, ROB. Y. HAYNE, D. BOULIGNY, } Committee of the Senate.

W. S. ARCHER, S. VAN RENSSELAER, PHILIP S. MARKLEY, } Committee of the House.

Washington, January 1, 1825.

GENERAL LAFAYETTE'S REPLY.

WASHINGTON, JAN. 1, 1825.

Gentlemen of both Houses of Congress:

The immense and unexpected gift, which, in addition to former and considerable bounties, it has pleased Congress to confer upon me, calls for the warmest acknowledgments of an old American soldier and adopted son of the United States—two titles dearer to my heart than all the treasures in the world.

However proud I am of every sort of obligation received from the people of the U. S. and their Representatives in Congress, the large extent of this benefaction might have created in my mind feelings of hesitation, not inconsistent, I hope, with those of the most grateful reverence. But the so very kind resolutions of both Houses, delivered by you, gentlemen, in terms of equal kindness, precludes all other sentiments but those of the lively and profound gratitude of which, in respectfully accepting the munificent favor, I have the honor to beg you will be the organ.

Permit me, also, gentlemen, to join a tender of my affectionate personal thanks to the expression of the highest respect, with which I have the honor to be,

Your obedient servant,

LAFAYETTE.

The President communicated to the Senate the annual Report of the Secretary of the Treasury; which was read, and, on motion of Mr. Elliott, three thousand copies thereof were ordered to be printed for the use of the Senate.

Tuesday, Jan. 4.

The following resolutions, offered some time since, by Mr. J. S. Johnson, of Louisiana, were taken up, and, on his motion, referred to a select committee of five:

Resolved, That the public lands of the United States be appropriated and pledged as a permanent and perpetual fund for education and internal improvement.

Resolved, That the proceeds of the sales of the public lands, after defraying the incidental expenses, be annually invested by the Secretary of the Treasury, in the stock of the Bank of the United States, or in the Stock of the government, or other stock, as Congress may direct, together with the interest annually accruing thereon.

Resolved, That the year following the return of the next census, and immediately after the apportionment of Representatives, and every tenth year thereafter, the proceeds of the interest, arising from the said capital stock, shall be distributed among the several States, according to the ratio of representation; one half of which sum shall constitute a fund for education, and the other half shall constitute a fund for internal improvement, to be applied to these objects under the authority of the respective States; and the other half shall constitute a fund for internal improvement, to be applied under the authority of Congress.

The report of the Committee of Claims against the petition of Jacob Greer, of N. C. was taken up and agreed to.

The Senate then resumed, as in committee of the whole, the consideration of the bill to abolish imprisonment for debt; and after the adoption of some verbal amendments, the amendments made in committee being reported to the Senate, were concurred in, and the bill ordered to be engrossed for a third reading—ayes 23, noes 19.

Wednesday, Jan. 5.

The bill for the relief of Thomas L. Ogden and others, was taken up, and, after some debate, in which Mr Van Buren zealously supported the claim, the bill was ordered to a third reading.

The engrossed bill to abolish imprisonment for debt was taken up for a third reading, when, on motion of Mr. Noble, it was postponed till Friday, for the purpose of having the bill and amendments printed.

Thursday, January 6.

The bill for the relief of Thomas L. Ogden and others, was read the third time and passed.

The Senate adjourned to Monday.

House of Representatives.

Monday, Jan. 3.

Mr. Livingston reminded the House, that during the last session, he had made a motion relative to an increase of the establishment at West Point. He now gave notice that he should bring the subject before the House next week.

The House resolved itself into a committee on the bill relative to the Niagara Claims—When the committee rose,

The Speaker presented the annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury, which was referred to the committee of Ways and Means.

Tuesday, Jan. 4.

The following resolution, offered yesterday by Mr. Livingston, was taken up:

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to consider and report on the expediency of establishing an academy for instruction in those sciences necessary for the service of the military marine, with power to report by bill or otherwise.

After some debate, the resolution was rejected.

On motion of Mr. Conner, it was

Resolved, That the committee on the Post Office and Post Roads be instructed to inquire into the expediency of establishing a post route from Lincolnton, North-Carolina, by Jacob Fullinesider's, Ervinsville, and Mooresborough, to Rutherfordton.

Mr. Saunders, of N. C. offered a resolution to amend the Constitution of the United States, on the subject of the election of President. The substance of the proposed amendment is, that the states shall be divided into districts; that the election for electors shall be held on the same day throughout the United States; that the person having the greatest number of electoral votes shall be the President, if such number be one third of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have one third, then from the two highest, the House of Representatives shall choose the President.

That the person having the greatest number of votes for Vice President shall be Vice President, if such number be one-third of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have one-third, then from the two highest on the list, the Senate shall chuse, &c.

The resolution was twice read, and referred to the committee of the whole on the state of the Union.

Some time was spent in committee of the whole, on the bill for the relief of the claimants for property destroyed on the Niagara frontier during the late war, and, when the committee rose, the House adjourned.

Wednesday, Jan. 5.

After the transaction of business of minor importance, the House took up the bill for the relief of the Niagara sufferers, and after amendment, it was ordered to lie on the table and be printed.

Thursday, January 6.

On motion of Mr. Tracy, the House then went into the consideration of the bill relative to the Niagara Claims. A number of amendments were made to the bill, and some others proposed and rejected, when, on motion of Mr. Mercer, the bill was laid on the table.

Mr. Dwight moved the House to take up the Georgia Militia Claims, which motion was negatived.

On motion of Mr. Webster, the House went into Committee of the whole on the bill more effectually to provide for the punishment of certain crimes against the U. States, and for other purposes.

After amendments to the bill, on motion of Mr. Livermore, the committee rose, reported progress, and obtained leave to sit again.

The Speaker laid before the House the following message from the President, which was laid on the table, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the U. States:

As the term of my service in this high trust will expire at the end of the present session of Congress, I think it proper to invite your attention to an object very interesting to me; and which, in the movement of our Government, is deemed, on principle, equally interesting to the Public. I have been long in the service of my country, and in its most difficult conjunctures, as well abroad as at home, in the course of which I have had a control over the public moneys to a vast amount. If, in the course of my service, it shall appear, on the most severe scrutiny, which I invite, that the public have sustained any loss by any act of mine, or of others for which I ought to be held responsible, I am willing to bear it.—If, on the other hand, it shall appear, on a view of the law, and of precedents in other cases, that justice has been withheld from me, in any instance, as I have believed it to be in many, and greatly to my injury, it is submitted whether it ought not to be rendered. It is my wish that all matters of account and claims, between my country and myself, be settled with that strict regard to justice which is observed in settlements between individuals in private life. It would be gratifying to me, and it appears to be just, that the subject should be now examined, in both respects, with a view to a decision hereafter. No bill would, it is presumed, be presented for my signature, which I could operate either for or against me, and I would certainly sanction none in my favor. While here, I can furnish testimony, applicable to any case in both views, which a full investigation may require; and a committee to whom the subject may be referred, by reporting facts now, with a view to a decision after my retirement, will afford time for further information, and due consideration of all matters relating thereto. Settlements with a person in this trust which could not be made with the accounting officers of the government, should always be made by Congress, and before the public. The cause of the delay in presenting these claims, will be explained to a committee to whom the subject may be referred. It will, I presume, be made apparent that it was inevitable; that from the peculiar circumstances attending each case Congress alone could decide on it; and that from considerations of delicacy, it would have been highly improper for me to have sought it from Congress at an earlier period than that which is now proposed, the expiration of my term in this high trust. Other considerations appear to me to operate with great force, in favor of the measure which I now propose. A citizen who has long served his country, in its highest trusts, has a right, if he has served with fidelity, to enjoy undisturbed tranquility and peace in his retirement. This he cannot expect to do, unless his conduct in all pecuniary concerns, shall be placed by severe scrutiny, on a basis not to be shaken. This, therefore, forms a strong motive with me for the inquiry which I now invite. The public may also derive considerable advantage from the precedent in the future movement of the government. It being known that such scrutiny was made in my case, it may form a new and strong barrier against the abuse of the public confidence in future.

JAMES MONROE.

Washington, Jan. 5th, 1825.

Friday, January 7.

A bill from the Senate, "for the relief of Thomas L. Ogden and others," was read twice, and committed.

Mr. Tracy moved to take up the bill relative to the Niagara Claims.—Ayes 74, Noes 66.

The question was then taken on the engrossment of the bill, for a third reading. Ayes 81, Noes 57.

The bill was then ordered to be engrossed and read a third time on Monday.

Mr. Williams, of N. C. gave notice that he should, on this question, call for the Ayes and Noes.

The House then went into committee on the bill "the more effectually to provide for the punishment of certain crimes against the United States, and for other purposes," the consideration of which occupied the remainder of the sitting.

Politics and personalities will give a temporary interest to authors, but they must possess something more if they would wish to render that interest permanent. I question whether Junius himself had not been long since forgotten, if we could but have ascertained whom to forget; but our reminiscenses were kept from slumbering, chiefly because it was undetermined where the dead should rest The Letters of Junius are a splendid monument, an unappropriated cenotaph, which, like the pyramids of Egypt, derives much of its importance from the mystery in which the hand that reared it is involved. Lacon.

AGRICULTURE is the most certain source of strength, and wealth, and independence. Commerce flourishes by circumstances precarious, contingent, transitory, almost as liable to change, as the winds and waves that waft it to our shores. She may well be termed the younger sister; for, in all emergencies, she looks to agriculture, both for defence and for supply. The earth, indeed, is doubly grateful, inasmuch as she not only repays forty-fold to the cultivator, but reciprocally improves its improver, rewarding him with strength and health, and vigor. Agriculture, therefore, is the true officina militum; and in her brave and hardy peasantry, she offers a legitimate and trusty sword to those rulers that duly appreciate her value, and court her alliance. It is, however, more easy to convert husbandmen into excellent soldiers, than to imitate Romulus, who could, at will, reconvert them again. He first moulded those materials that conquered the world: a peasantry victorious in war, laborious in peace, despisers of sloth, prepared to reap the bloodless harvest of the sickle, after having secured that of the sword.—The only employments, says Dion, that Romulus left to freemen were, agriculture and warfare; for he observed that men so employed are more temperate, less entangled in the pursuits of forbidden love, and subject to that kind of avarice only which leads them, not to injure one another, but to enrich themselves at the expense of the enemy. But finding that each of these occupations, separate from the other, is imperfect, and produces murmurs, instead of appointing one part of the men to till the earth, and the other to lay waste the enemy's country, according to the institution of the Lacedæmonians, he ordered the same persons to exercise the employments both of husbandmen and of soldiers, and accustomed them, in time of peace, to live in the country, and cultivate the land, except when it was necessary for them to come to market upon which occasions they were to meet in the city, in order to traffic; and to that end he appointed a market to be held every ninth day. And, in time of war, he taught them the duty of soldiers, and not to yield to any other, in the fatigues or advantages that attend it.—Lacon.

The neap tides continued until Saturday evening, when an easterly wind raised them to a sufficient height to enable the ship to get over with perfect ease.—Herald.

The ship of the line building at Philadelphia is said to be on an improved plan, having her stern made round, and planked in a similar manner to the bow, which adds greatly to the strength of the ship, and gives her a decided advantage in battle over ships with a squared stern. The annual Report of the deaths in our City for the past year, (says the Baltimore Chronicle, though less by several hundreds, in the aggregate, than the preceding one, affords a subject of the most serious regret to the philanthropist. We allude to the death of the coloured persons. It appears by the report that, out of 416 deaths of that description of persons that 368 were free and 48 slaves.—This disparity in the number of deaths between our slave and free population is still more a subject of regret when we view the relation in which they stand to each other in the total. While the free population amounts to but 4,351 the slave population exceeds ten thousand, averaging more than two to one of the latter to the former.

The actual amount of deaths is nearly 8 to one in favour of the slave population and by comparison with their numerical strength it will be found to be about 16 to 1.

This is in truth a distresing fact, and furnishes the strongest possible evidence of the wretched moral condition of our free coloured population. Horrid, indeed, must be that condition, into which they relapse, upon becoming emancipated, that can produce such an awful influence upon the principles of vitality.

To the Commissioners of Fayetteville.

GENTLEMEN—Since my last weekly report, two deaths, (old Fanny and old Tom) have occurred, making, in all, three deaths at the Hospital.

Two new cases of the disease in town, and three in the vicinity, have occurred within the last week. These five cases constitute the whole number labouring under the prevailing Epidemic, and can all be traced to the Mansion Hotel, before the contagion at that house was destroyed.

Three of the above cases have occurred in white persons.

There are no cases of the disease in town.

With great respect, I am, Gentlemen, your obedient servant,

BENJAMIN ROBINSON.

Fayetteville, Jan. 11, 1825.

The annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury was transmitted to both Houses of Congress on the 3d inst. It is a document of too great length to be inserted entire in the Observer. The following brief statement will present to our readers the most important facts contained in the report:

The actual receipts into the Treasury during the year 1823, amounted to	$20,540,666 26
Making, with the balance in the Treasury, on the 1st Jan. 1823, of	4,237,427 55
An aggregate of	24,778,093 81
The actual expenditures during the year 1823, amounted to	15 314,171
Leaving a balance in the Treasury on the 1st January, 1824, of	9,463,922 81
The actual receipts into the Treasury during the three first quarters of the year 1824, are estimated to have amounted to	19,630 8 3 96
And the actual receipts into the Treasury, during the fourth quarter of the year, including the moiety of the loan of 5,000,000, authorized by the act of the 26th of May, 1824, for paying the 6 per cent. stock of 1812, are estimated at	7,350,000
Making the total estimated receipts into the Treasury, during the year 1824,	26,980,693 96
And, with the balance in the Treasury on the 1st of January 1824, forming an aggregate of
The expenditures during the three first quarters of the year 1824, are estimated to have amounted to	$21,563,702 73
And the expenditures during the 4th quarter are estimated at	10,374,445 13
Making the total estimated expenditure of the year 1824	31,938,147 86
And leaving in the Treasury, on the 1st of January, 1825, an estimated balance of	4,506,668 91

The funded debt unredeemed, on the 1st of Jan. 1825, (including $7,000,000 5 per cent. stock subscription to the Bank of the U. States, for which the stock of the Bank held by the government is considered an equivalent,) was 86,045,003 38

"It is estimated that, in the year ending on the 30th September last, the value of domestic articles exported was $49,684,710; which exceeded, by $2,529,302, the amount exported in the preceding year; and that the value of foreign articles exported was $25,248,782; which was less, by $2,294,840, than the amount exported in the preceding year. The value of imports, during the same period, is estimated at $78,516,183; which exceeds the imports of the preceding year, by $936,916."

"The operation of the new tariff upon the revenue cannot now be correctly estimated. On one important branch of imports, those from beyond the Cape of Good Hope, its provisions will not take effect until the first of January next. As it is only since the 1st of July last that it has been in operation in regard to other importations, and as the collectors are allowed by law three months for rendering their accounts, the addition caused by the new tariff cannot, even for that portion of the imports, and for one quarter of the year, be stated with perfect accuracy.

"It is believed, however, that the investigation which has been made with a view to that object, affords data for estimating its effects with sufficient exactness for the present purpose. It has been found that, upon the whole importations (estimating their value at the rates adopted in forming the statistical report,) in the three quarters of the year ending on the 30th June, 1824, the gross amount of duties was $27.45 per cent; and that, if the rates of the present tariff had been applied to the same importations, the duties would have amounted to $30 30 per cent; which is equal to an increase upon the amount of duties, of $10.39 per cent. It also appears, that in eight of the principal ports of the United States, the rate of duties upon the whole amount of importations during the third quarter of the year 1823, was $28.36; and during the corresponding quarter of the year 1824, it was $30.98 per cent. But it is to be observed that in the third quarter of 1824, the importations from beyond the Cape of Good-Hope were not subjected to the increased rates of the new tariff. These, it is estimated, would have made the rate of duties, in that quarter, $31.40 per cent.; which is equal to an increase upon the amount of duties of $7.57 per cent. The new tariff may, perhaps, have some effect upon the importation of those articles which pay high rates of duty, and for which articles of a lower rate may be substituted. But, as the value of the imports depends more upon the ability of the importing country to pay than upon the amount of duty levied upon the articles imported, it is not probable that, under the present circumstances of the commerce of the U. States, there will be any diminution in the aggregate. Upon the whole, therefore, it is believed that the revenue derived from imports will be increased by the operation of the new tariff, in a ratio nearly equal to that in which it is estimated to have been increased during the third quarter of the present year, in the ports above mentioned; or, about 7½ per cent. This increase, however, will produce less augmentation in the actual receipts into the Treasury, during the year 1825, than in subsequent years.

With these views of the subject, the receipts into the Treasury, during the year 1825, are estimated at 23,950,000 dollars.

The expenditures of the year are estimated at	21,705,153 64

Which will leave in the Treasury on the 1st of January, 1826, after satisfying all the demands of the year 1825, a surplus estimated at $2,244,836 36"

For the purpose of paying off a large amount of debt which will shortly be redeemable, and which now bears an interest of 6 per cent., the Secretary recommends that a loan of twelve millions of dollars may be authorized, at an interest of 5 per cent.

The Secretary estimates, that the whole of the principal and interest of the public debt of the United States, may be discharged by the end of the year 1835, by the appropriation of ten millions a year until that time.

A reduction of $37,446,961 92 of the public debt has been effected within the last eight years.

It is stated, "that, excluding the loans, the annual average receipts, in the last eight years, may be estimated at $21,700,000 00; and, the annual revenue, in subsequent years, may also be estimated at $21,500,000 00. Should no important change be made in the existing national establishments, the ordinary annual expenditures, exclusive of what may be required for the erection of fortifications, and the increase of the Navy, may be estimated at about $18,500,000 00. Thus, after providing for the annual demands for the payment of the principal and interest of the public debt, and for all the ordinary expenses of the Government, there will remain, for the next eleven years, an annual surplus of about $3,000,000; which, after the extinction of the debt in the year 1835, will receive an annual addition of the $10,000,000 now appropriated to the public debt: which surplusses may be applied to such objects, conducive to the common defence, as may be within the constitutional powers of Congress, and as they, in their wisdom, may deem proper."

The debt of the City of New-York, is stated, in report from the Comptroller to the Corporation, to be $946,072 97.

The debt of Baltimore, as exhibited in a communication from the Mayor, to the City Councils, is $464,323 20.

POETRY.

[From the National Journal.]

NATURE.

Nature's rude fashions are sublimely great—
Who ponders on her giant works must deem
Her wild and free magnificence of state,
As offering his mind the noblest theme.
High towering grandeur sits upon her crest!
And from her palm descends the plenteous stream—
Her mighty arm piles mountain lands to breast
The swelling billows of the angry main,
Which ceaseless strike her rock-bound shores in vain.

Go gaze on lofty towers—glittering domes—
Which first catch brightness from the morning sun;
Once such, and more than thou hast seen, were Rome's,
But he, and they, and all she held, are done.
The bands which guided her were strong enow—
Firm were the mighty pillars of her state—
Thick were the full-blown honors of her brow—
In proud magnificence her monarchs sate,
Thron'd high as potent Jupiter; and hurl'd
Their awful terrors 'gainst a trembling world.
What now? Her fanes are scatter'd on the ground—
Her sword destroy'd by Time's corroding rust—
The thousand wreaths which bound her brow around,
Are wither'd—and the pillars of her trust
Are crush'd and gone—thick o'er her guardian star,
Which erst gave forth a long and steady beam,
That fell on many a pompous triumph car,
Dark clouds, like sleep upon a feverish dream,
Have passed for aye—no more its dazzling light,
Which long has slept, and sleeps, shall wake from its eternal night.

But Nature is the same in every age!
The hills whereon the imperial City stood
Yet stand, as when they bore against the rage,
And vainly spurn'd the waters of the flood.
Thou can'st not equal her—your princely hall
And splendid palaces, that have their birth,
When centuries have swept o'er her—must fall,
And mingle their proud columns with her earth.
Enough—she claims survivorship and sway,
When things of Time, and Time, shall pass away.

Valuable Lands & Mills for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale, 12,000 acres of Land, on Lower Little River, in Cumberland county, on which there are about 150 or 200 acres of valuable Swamp Land: a part of it is cleared and produces good hay, the rest abounds with reeds, and would winter a large stock of cattle, and could be enclosed at a small expense. The remainder of the land is covered with the best pine for lumber, &c. There are on the above lands two Saw-Mills, with two saws in each frame; both of which have been lately re-built, and are in the best order. There is a good bridge over the river at the mills. Also, some cleared ground, under good fence; a handsome garden; and the necessary buildings for carrying on the business. Oxen, timber, wheels, and the necessary tools, may be had with the mills.

Also, 1000 acres on Upper Little River, in Moore county, known by the name of the Garter Place, which is well known to be one of the most valuable tracts of land in that part of the country. It lies well, abounds with excellent springs, and a mill site within fifty yards of the houses. The whole of it is either good bottom or cotton land of a superior quality. It has a good orchard, and a large quantity of open land.

Also, one lot and the buildings thereon, situated in the town of Fayetteville, on Green street, lately occupied by Mr. Joseph Baker; and also, one lot situated on Person street, at the foot of the hill towards Campbelton.

I deem it unnecessary to be more minute in describing the above property. The Mills, Lands, &c. on Lower Little River will, in my absence, be shown to those who may wish to purchase, by Mr. Angus Kelly, who lives in the neighborhood. The lots in Fayetteville, by Mr. Duncan Thompson, and the lands in Moore county, by myself. I will sell all or any part of the above property very low, for cash, or on a liberal credit. 392tf

Eighty Dollars Rew[illegible]ard

FOUR slaves belonging to the estate of [illegible] Russell, deceased, having gone off from Fayetteville, in the spring of 1823, with a forged master's will, by which they were set at liberty contrary to the laws of North-Carolina; and [illegible] the will having been declared null by the decree of the courts,

The above reward will be given for the whole and the same in proportion for each, to any one who will return them, or secure them in any goal so they may be recovered by their rightful owners.

The following is a description of these slaves:
A black fellow, by the name of Cesar, 45 years old, round shouldered, chunky made, inclined to stutter when he talks fast, and pretends to be a carpenter; Tener, his wife, thick made, complexion rather low, about 35 years of age. Sandy, a lad of about 14, yellow complexion, well set, one of his front teeth out, lisps when he talks. Penny, a girl of about 12 years old, daughter of Tener, appears about six years old.
